Blended Ash Wednesday

My Dear Friends in Christ,

Illness, in ancient times, was often seen as a reflection of one's relationship with God. If one was healthy, one was "right with God"; conversely, if one was ill (say, with leprosy as seen in today's readings) one was seen as "unfavorable" to God. It was in this light that today's readings present a contrast as to how the revelation and presence of Jesus makes such a large difference in our lives.

In today's first reading, Moses sets forth the steps one would take if they found themselves leprous. They are to first present themselves to Aaron, or one of the priests, for inspection. If they are found to be with leprosy, they are declared "unclean" and are to announce themselves as such. The person with leprosy would then separate themselves from the community until such time as the leprosy leaves them (something which would be highly unlikely, since they couldn't get medical treatment). The members of the Israelite community (including the leprous person themselves) would not find this unusual, since it came from the priest.

Jesus, by contrast, takes a radically different approach to one with leprosy. Rather than follow the Mosaic Law, Jesus chooses a different "tack" by opting to unite Himself with the person with leprosy. This is radical not only in that it stands in contrast to Mosaic Law, but also in the fact that Jesus actually touches the person with leprosy. Even if one had sympathy for such a person, one would never actually choose to come into physical contact with that person. This is where Jesus shows us a "new way". Jesus is "moved with pity" (Mk 1:41) at the plight of the man with leprosy. He has been separated from the community by his condition; he is also seen as being "in sin", for the illness has to have a cause and the people automatically think it is because the man is not "right" with God. Jesus sees beyond all of this, choosing to align Himself with the man by not only physically touching the man, but also uniting the man back with the community through the Mosaic Law ("go, show yourself to the priest..." (Mk 1:44). In this way, Jesus once again shows Himself to be the fulfillment of the Law and the Prophets.

Where is it in our lives that we need to, in humility, approach Jesus for healing? Perhaps we have a "broken" relationship which needs God's healing touch. Perhaps we have a physical malady in which we need to "align" our suffering to that of Christ who, Himself, knew what it meant to suffer. Perhaps we need to be an "agent" of healing, not being healed but bringing God's healing touch to someone. In whatever way healing needs to take place, let us be "vessels" of God's healing presence. May we know God's healing, and may we be unafraid to bring it to those who need it. May we look to God to heal us, bring His healing touch into the world, and celebrate this healing with all whom we meet.

Have a Blessed Week,

Fr. Paul

Confirmation Students: Outdoor Mass!

All grade 10 students and their families are invited to a special outdoor Mass on Sunday February 28th at 3:00 PM in the St. Ann's parking lot. Families are invited to bring chairs to sit outside, or can listen to Mass from inside their cars! At the Mass, all Confirmation students will be given forms to prepare them for their upcoming Sacrament. We look forward to seeing you all there!

"Not by bread alone" Recipe Contest!

Do you love to cozy up in the kitchen on a chilly blustery day? It's time to share those talents with our very first Recipe Contest! No need to be an expert chef; whether it's a simple snack, a tasty dessert, or a well-honed family favorite, all entries are welcome! There will be prizes in various categories!

Send your recipe by Friday, March 5th to directorofministries.TIC@gmail.com

Final Reminder: Virtual Book Club this Sunday, February 21st at 1:00 PM!

We will be discussing Matthew Kelly's book, The Biggest Lie in the History of Christianity. Even if you haven't finished reading the book, you're still welcome to participate!

'THE SOCIAL DILEMMA' EFFIE CALDAROLA

Social media sites know everything about you, or at least that's their goal. And with every click, every "like," every message you view or ignore, they learn more about you.

My brother has been a faithful member of Alcoholics Anonymous for decades. He's the guy who opens the church and brews the coffee for the weekly meeting.

But since March, his meetings have been on Zoom. So he had an idea. On Zoom, he could meet anywhere, right? So why not go somewhere new. He looked up AA meetings on Google, wrote to a group in County Mayo, Ireland, and asked if they'd share their meeting link. Voila! There he was, at a meeting in a little village in Ireland.

Technology and social media are amazing. What would I have done without texting, emails and Zoom during isolation, with kids far away and a new granddaughter in October? It's great to keep up with friends on Facebook. Twitter and other platforms provide lots of news. It's a blessing in so many ways.

"The Social Dilemma" is a documentary made before our recent terrorist attack. Available on Netflix, it includes interviews with many of the brilliant people who brought us Google, Twitter, Facebook, Pinterest and other sites that occupy so much of our time. The warnings they present are sobering. I have friends who have quit Facebook after watching it.

Social media sites know everything about you, or at least that's their goal. And with every click, every "like," every message you view or ignore, they learn more about you. It's a constant process, a never-ending attempt to lure you into more -- more scrolling, more addiction, more hours spent on their sites.

When they see what you like, what you click on, they give you more of the same. That's how some people fall into a rabbit hole of increasingly more frightening misinformation and conspiracy. So you're interested in the "lizard people conspiracy?" Or you're sure there's a "deep state" running things? Wait, says the site, there's more!

The film provides a realistic portrayal of how a young person might become radicalized by social media, something we've come to associate with jihadis. But now that we've seen our own home-grown terrorism, we realize how powerfully persuasive social media can be even to susceptible adults.

Addicting us is what social media has to do to sell their product, and to sell the products their sites sell. It's built into their algorithms.

And what is social media doing to our kids? We've heard of young teens seeking plastic surgery so they could resemble the "influencers" they follow on Instagram.

The statistics on the skyrocketing rates in the last decade of suicide, depression, self-harm and anxiety among teens are terrifying, and those rates are rising fastest among the youngest teens. Meanwhile, teen pregnancy rates are dropping. On the face of it, that's a good thing, right? But it's a sign of a frightening trend -- teens are increasingly living their lives on screen, rather than in in-person relationships. This is not healthy.

Solutions? The "Social Dilemma" offers some technical and regulatory ones, but also practical advice. Don't give your kids smartphones until they're well into their teens, and then be vigilant. It's very important to get your own news from a variety of well-regarded sources. And monitor the time you spend scrolling.

Perhaps a good question to ask as we look forward to Lent: How much time do I spend daily in prayer versus how much time on social media?

Great News - Worldwide Marriage Encounter has gone "Virtual"!

To support married couples during this time of social distancing, Worldwide Marriage Encounter is sponsoring virtual marriage experiences. Some are on weekends and some span multiple weeks on a given weekday. Couples will explore their individual personality styles, improve listening and communication skills, understand God's plan for their marriage, and learn how to keep their relationship a priority. Registration is limited and a $100 application fee is required. For more information or to apply, call at or visit them at <https://wwmema.org/>.

"Whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do everything for the glory of God." Does your marriage give glory to God? Learn how to let your Sacrament shine on an upcoming virtual Worldwide Marriage Encounter Weekend on Feb 22-Mar 15, 2021 in VIRTUAL 3RE, NY and Mar 19-21, 2021 in HAWTHORNE, NJ

Fr. Donald Skerry SVD passed away peacefully at 7:25 A.M. Wednesday, February 3, 2021 at the Techny residence. In Chicago. His health, especially his memory, had steadily declined for the last several months.

Fr. Skerry was a dedicated part of the St. John Faith Community for years, serving masses, assisting with sacraments, being a constant example of someone filled with God's grace. He was a good friend to Fr. Wally, Fr. Paul and to us all.

May Fr. Skerry rest in peace and receive his reward in heaven with Almighty God.

Come Unto Me and I will give you Rest!

Please keep Fr. Skerry in your prayers.
