Consoling Thoughts

(From the Catholic Devotional)

Dear Lord! Make me remember, when the world seems cold and dreary and I know not where to turn for comfort, that there is always one spot bright and cheerful—the Sanctuary. When I am in desolation of spirit, when all who are dear to me have passed away, life’s summer flowers, and none are left to love me and care for me, whisper in my troubled soul that there is one Friend who dies not—one whose love never changes—Jesus on the altar. When sorrows thicken and crush me with their burden, when I look in vain for comfort, let me remember Your words: “Come to Me, all you who labor and are heavily burdened, and I will refresh you.” Your friendship, dear Lord, henceforth, shall be the dearest treasure I possess. It shall be my consolation when all who hold a place in my heart are gone from this earth! With Your friendship, the world shall never be dreary and life never without charm. Would that I could realize the pure happiness of possessing Your sympathy and compassion.

My Dear Friends in Christ,

The words we find spoken by Jesus in today’s gospel seem somewhat incongruous with the “Prince of Peace” we know Him to be; as my seminary professor who taught us the “ins and outs” of the New Testament used to say, this is not the “warm and fuzzy Jesus” to which many are accustomed. Yet they are in line with Jesus’ sense that the mission He has brought into the world will bring division. Not all will be able to listen to His words and follow His pronouncements. The life of a Christian is not an easy one, and Jesus makes that abundantly clear in this gospel passage from Luke. Even family relationships, which are supposed to be sources of comfort and security, are called into question by Jesus in this text.

So, where does this leave us? Quite simply, if even (biological) family relationships might be a source of contention, then there is only one place to turn: Jesus. It is Jesus to whom we are to look for surety and safety. It is the Lord to whom we are to look when we are in trouble. It was that way with Jeremiah, with the Psalmist (in today’s Psalm 40), it was that way with St. Paul and the other disciples, and it is that way with us. We do not, however, face these challenges alone. We have our brothers and sisters in faith, we have the Church, and we have God Himself. The “baptism” with which Jesus must be baptized is one of suffering, death and, ultimately, redemption. It is not, of course, His redemption which is at stake: it is ours. Jesus does, however, know what it is to suffer; He knows what it is to die. But through His suffering and death, we have not only won for us newness of life, but the security to go through this life courageously. We do secure in the knowledge that we have “not yet resisted to the point of shedding blood” (Heb. 12:4). We do, however, have to “die to self” so that Christ may live in us.

May we have the courage to follow Jesus with our whole heart. May we know that any suffering we endure is nothing as compared to the glory that awaits us in the Kingdom. May we know and trust that Jesus walks with us on our journey of faith supporting, lifting up and strengthening us. May this life bear fruit not only here on earth, but in the Kingdom of His Eternal Love.

Have a Blessed Week,

Fr. Paul

COLLABORATIVE NEWS AT SAINT ANN'S AND SAINT. JOHN'S

On August 21 and 22 and 30 we commemorate the victims of terrorism, the victims of acts of violence based on religion or belief, and victims of enforced disappearances.

Victims of violence struggle to have their voices heard, their needs supported and their rights upheld. After the initial news splash, victims of terrorist attacks often feel forgotten and neglected. There are continuing acts of intolerance and violence based on religion or belief against individuals and communities around the world, and the number and intensity of these incidents are increasing. Enforced disappearance has frequently been used as a strategy to spread terror within society. The feeling of insecurity generated by this practice is not limited to the close relatives of the disappeared, but also affects their communities and society as a whole. As terrorist events and other acts of violence are on the rise in an increasingly more unstable world, we all can feel overwhelmed and find our emotions spiraling out of control.

My friends, let's pause right here.

What are you feeling? What is happening in your heart?
Do you feel yourself sinking, hiding, withdrawing,
angry, overwhelmed, powerless, or...?

I feel my heart closing... How can I effectively matter to these people? Certainly, I care. But I want to care deeply.

I want to feel that these strangers are my brothers and sisters.

I want to touch my most generous love for all of them and each of them, wherever they are, whatever they experience.

I want to touch our oneness.

I want to marvel that despite the evil and darkness that we can perpetrate against each other, it is, as Thomas Merton said in Conjectures of a Guilty Bystander, "a glorious destiny to be a member of the human race dedicated to many absurdities and one which makes terrible mistakes; yet, with all that, God Himself glories in becoming a member of the human race. A member of the human race! ...I have the immense joy of being man, a member of a race in which God Himself became incarnate."

Take a moment to breathe in the wonder of this spark of truth that lies at the foundation of our common human destiny.

Breathe it in, again and again.
Take in the wonder of God's extravagant love for us.

I see now that it is God who can open my heart to fall in love with this humanity so threatened with shadows and fear, to give myself with a caring heart that pours itself out in the fragrance of prayer and hope, to surrender myself to the work he has called me to do no matter how small...or great...it may be

This month let prayer, surrender, and calm fill your hearts as we cherish our fragile world so loved by our powerful and merciful Father.

Blessings,
Sr Kathryn

GOSPEL MEDITATION - ENCOURAGE DEEPER UN- DERSTANDING OF SCRIPTURE

August 18, 2019 — 20th Sunday in Ordinary Time

The Prince of Peace wants to set the world on fire? This Sunday's Gospel can sound more intense than what we may be accustomed to. It's a passage of contradictions. Jesus so clearly prays for unity, yet here he speaks of division. Why would our God who comes as an offering of love speak so frankly about causing relationships to be torn apart?

The sobering truth is that Jesus is divisive. We see this throughout the Gospels, as the Pharisees critique him, the Romans condemn him, and not everyone in the crowd is enthusiastic about his words. Jesus has not come for the purpose of dividing, but what he does is so radical that it upends the status quo. And it doesn't end with his preaching and miracles! "There is a baptism with which I must be baptized." Jesus isn't talking about his baptism at the Jordan River, which has already occurred, but the passing through the waters of death on the Cross and rising again to new life in the resurrection. This is divisive stuff! Christ's spiritual fire turned the "fathers" - the Jewish people and Pharisees - against the "sons" - the common people. Not everyone wants the Gospel Jesus is preaching. Not everyone wants to be set on fire with the desire to love others. Some prefer to put on a warm sweater and curl up in front of the TV.

In living and loving as Jesus did, we, too, might ruffle some feathers. In disciplining our teenage child for sneaking out, we may cause some division (temporarily, we hope!). In standing up to gossip and the spread of cruel rumors in our workplace, we might cause division. In emphasizing the dignity of both the desperate mother and the unborn child, we might cause division. Not everyone wants the Gospel Jesus is preaching. Not everyone wants the Gospel we are invited to live. But that's no excuse not to live it.

Worldwide Marriage Encounter

Allow Jesus to transform your marriage and show you how to truly love your spouse by attending a Worldwide Marriage Encounter Weekend. The next Weekends are Sep 14-15, 2019 in Medway,
